New American Credo

The school teachers of Buffalo are back in the classrooms with a promise of better pay next year, if legislative action to provide more money is forthcoming. The city of Buffalo and other cities with the prob- Jennings ave. lem of adequate pay for teachers know now that the organized members of the teaching profession can be ters, garbage collectors, steelworkers, or the members ing places. of any of the unionized occupants.

The fact is that until the school teachers of Buffalo flouted the discipline they are responsible for preserving, they weren't getting anywhere. It's going to be hard to convince them and school teachers elsewhere that they shouldn't subscribe to the new American credo that pressure is the greater part of persuasion in a wage dispute. Whatever prestige they may have lost by going on strike, they obtained resultsand they can't eat prestige.

There is talk of a strike of school teachers in New York City. All over the United States, school teachers who haven't been getting anything but sympathyand not too much of that-are going to wonder why they shouldn't follow the example of coal miners, who raised themselves from the bottom to the top of the wage scale by striking. There's a reason, But social discipline seems remote from the struggle to survive

Their state of mind in this respect is a discouraging commentary on the state of affairs in a nation which likes to boast that it believes in the rule of live and let live, yet is capable of letting the teaching profession drift into such a desperate economic plight that its members now must borrow the weapon of the strike to prove they are worthy of their hire.

The Pragmatic Method

There's no way to find out, except by trying, whether the nation is capable of raising a 100 percent volunteer army and navy.

President Truman's decision not to recommend an extension of the Selective Service Act, which expires March 31, places responsibility for a full-strength army for room rent. and navy upon the recruiting services. From past records there is no way of determining whether they are equal to the task. At first glance, it would seem they

Based on the Army Recruiting Service's record for the last year, enlistments and re-enlistments for the next 12 months would total 240,000, while personnel losses through discharge will total 360,000. This would leave the army 120,000 short of its desired quota of 1,-070,000 by July 1, 1948. The navy's peacetime strength in Calumet hall Monday. has been set at 571,000 which would mean that it must enlist 150,000 during the next year. Enlistments are not being made at this rate at present. "However," says the President in his recommendation to Congress, "there is a reasonable expectation that better results

Since September, 1945, when the army recruiting S. M. VanBlaricom. program was instituted, selective service has been called upon only to make up deficits in recruitment. The last two months of 1946 each provided 18,000 enlistments while in January, always a good month for January total, the army's recruitment program, in so Friday night. far as quantity goes, is solved.

The President places two previsos in his recomenactment of the Selective Service Act if the recruit- church, ing program is unsuccessful, and second, that civilian personnel may be hired from appropriated funds when enlisted personnel is short. And he concludes with a declaration to which all may add assent: "The efforts of the War Department to reach the desired goal of an entirely volunteer army are worthy of the maximum support on the part of the administration, the Congress and the people."

First Hunger, Then Despotism

One truism is repeated so often that the reptition itself is becoming significant: that communism flourishes when populations are desperate from hunger. The proposition in reverse is that the only way to strengthen popular government in insecure countries is to make certain that the people get enough to eat.

This is the essence of the European problem of postwar reconstruction. The contest between the Soviet Union and the United States for influence is a contest for control of human beings through alterna- far-reaching significance is likely to upset all plans teeth and the mouth before opera-

Great Britain Plans To Reduce Its Navy

LONDON, March 6.—Britain will reduce the Royal Navy 60 percent this year.

The Admiralty announced today, in its budget estimates for 1947-48, that the total number of Naval officers, seamen, boys and royal marines would be reduced from the 1946-47 maximum of 492,800 to 192,000 during the twelve months beginning April 1.

Couple with reductions announced earlier this week by the War Office and Air Ministry, the Navy slash will bring an overall reduction of about 2,430,000 in the British land, sea and air forces.

As a result of the manpower slash Britain's annual bill for the Navy will be reduced from $786,800,000 to

Over 66 Million Tires Used By Auto In 1946

CLEVELAND, March 6.-America's appetite for automobile tires has gobbled up virtually all the output of an industry which since V-J day has kept its production nearly a third higher than in pre-war years, James J. Newman, vice president of the B. F. Goodrich Co. of Akron said today.

Newman told the Cleveland Advertising club that the industry during 1946, turned out 88,000,000 tires, 28,000,000 more than in 1940, the last pre-war year. He predicted 1947 would reach another peak of 89.000:000.

Passenger car tires accounted for 66,300,000 of the 1946 total, also a third higher than the 1940 total, and 54,000,000 of them went into "replacement" use. He said the prewar replacement average was 30,-000,000, a ration of five replacement tires for each three sold for new cars, but that the present ratio was about 15 to three.

forcement and licensing were not a part of the monopoly system because both would be a state problem without monopoly.
Chairman Roscoe R. Walcutt of Columbus interrupted to ask if Taylor believed enforcement should be 'handled separately.

Taylor said he had not made up his mind whether enforcement should be outside the liquor department or be placed under the board of liquor control, but added: "I would raise the serious question of whether enforcement shouldn't be separated from the distribution of liquor.' Committee Counsel Frank J. Collopy said Miss Minnie Thornton, head of the liquor department's permit clerical help, would follow Taylor on the stand.

Opinion Goes On

"The defendant Lewis, it is true. was the aggressive leader in the studied and deliberate non-compliance with the order of the district court: but as the record shows, he stated in open court prior to imposition of the fines that 'the represen-tatives of the United Mine Workers determined that the so-called Krug-Lewis agreement was breached', and that it was the union's 'representatives' who 'notified the secretary of the interior that the contract was terminated as of Nov. 20. "And certainly it was the members of the defendant union who executed the nationwide strike. Loyalty in responding to the orders of their leaders may, in some minds minimize the gravity of the miners conduct; but we can not ignore the effect of their action upon the rights of other citizens, or the effect of their action upon our system of government." The chief justice asserted that the gains, social and economic.

TWO THINGS DOMINATED the conservation in the press room at South last night-the terrific crowd on hand and the terrific scoring power of Bob Pager.

It was a big night for Pager, a team and town that has consistently been "record-breaking happy" this season!

Last night Pager did his share by shattering these marks: He cracked a record high for the field house of 26 points, scored by Bob Shannon of South in 1942; he scored the highest total so far in the Class A tourney at South in 1946 and broke all other Class A tourney marks set there; he broke his own previous high of 27 points scored against Girard this year; he scored over 20 points in a game for the eighth time this season, a new mark for the Salem High books; he shattered his own mark of being the highest scoring Junior ever produced at Salem High and there are probably others, but that's enough for now.

Neither Lincoln nor Central looked impressive last night, but both were showing wares against somewhat inferior clubs and consequently didn't have to put out full speed

As for Warren, Salem's next opponent, little fault could be found with the Presidents attack. The boys in white and red were effectively in white and red were effectively and literally range. Larry Imburgia continued to be one of the sweetest ball players seen yet at South field house, cashing for 24 points as he headed the Warren fast break. That ups his game average to 15 for 23 contests, not bad in any loop.

Field-Curing of Hay is Risky

When you have to depend on Nature for all "the breaks", haymaking can become a very risky business. For example, in order to harvest good alfalfa hay-one-half leaf and one-half stem-the leaves have to dry in 3 hours and the stems in 10 to 20 hours. By the time the stems are dry enough to barvest, the leaves are so dry that 20 per cent to 60 per cent of them are usually lost in harvesting . . . which means a loss of bay. Often, while waiting, and not getting "the breaks", hay crops spoil. So, why not . . .

Take the Gamble Out of Haymaking

The better, more profitable way of curing hay is by putting it in the barn right after the morning cutting, then drying and curing it by forcing air through it by means of a large motordriven fan or blower and system of air ducts. With a barn hay drier, no hay needs to be left in the field overnight. But, if it is, it can be loaded early in the morning, even though it is still wet with dew. Don't wait for "the breaks" . . . it isn't profitable and you won't put up your best hay crop if

Why Barn-Cured Hay is Better There are many reasons why barn-cured hay is better. One is because hay cured in the barn doesn't get too much sunshine. Sunshine, of course, is necessary to dry hav in the field, but in doing this, hay frequently gets too much sunshine, causing the leaves to Another reason barn-cured hav is better is because it can be harvested

when it is exactly "right" . . . at its highest feed value, and then hauled to the barn "wilted green", ready for the controlled drying that produces high-

Too, cattle will pass up field-cured hay every time. One reason is the taste. The more important reason is that barn-cured hay contains the protein they need and want in their diet. If they don't get it in the hay you have to provide it in other, more expensive feeds.

Barn-Cured Hay is the Profitable Way

According to a recent estimate made by the Ohio State University Agricultural Engineers, "barn-curing" by electric hay driers increases the value of hay for feed as much as $5.00 per ton. The Tennessee Experiment Station in the covering of two periods of feedings -averaging 157 days eachfound that when heifers were fed hay which was cured in the barn, they averaged 26.3 pounds greater gain in off. The barn-cured way of hay dryweight than heifers fed field-cured hay.

HOW TO GET FULL INFORMATION ABOUT BARN-CURING

Call or write to your County Agent, your Vocational Agriculture Leader. or the Farm Representative, of the electric power company listed below. that serves your farm. They will be glad to help and can give you many additional facts and figures in terms of your own farm . . . there is no hay for the more palatable barn-cured obligation whatever for this service.
